

STREET HUNT

Simple Rules

A poem has been written with words from road names in Colchester and nearby towns and villages.

A book of photographs shows the street signs and their surroundings but with the names removed.

You have to work out what the streets are, using the emerging story of the poem to help you.

The first person to submit a correctly completed book with all the right answers wins. The prize is the total of the book sales from 16th September 2017 until a winner is found, with a guaranteed minimum of £1,000 and a maximum of £10,000 if all 1,000 books are sold at £10 each. We are asking for £10 for each book, but people can pay what they can afford. The more money we receive the bigger the prize pot gets. You can buy as many books as you want at £10 but only one per person with the pay what you can afford option.

To win, you need to give us your copy of the book with all the blank signs unambiguously filled in correctly, and the poem completed too.

What should I do if I think I have worked out all the answers?

Once you think you have all the correct answers, take your completed book to Colchester Arts Centre box office, Church Street, Colchester, CO1 1NF. They are open 10.30 a.m.–5.30 p.m. Monday–Saturday, except public holidays.

If you think you have all the correct answers outside of the Colchester Arts Centre box office hours, you can choose to (but are not obliged to) email a notification of intention to submit to info@streethunt.co.uk, indicating that you are ready to submit. You should include your name, a contact number, and the Limited edition book number printed on the back of your book. Intention to submit emails will only be referenced if there are two or more people waiting to submit entries as Colchester Arts Centre box office opens. In the case that two or more people are waiting to submit entries as Colchester Arts Centre box office opens, the Intention to submit emails will be used to decide whose submission will be deemed to be the earliest submission. Intention to submit emails will only remain valid if the book is then delivered to Colchester Arts Centre box office within 1 hour of the next opening, ie., by 11.30 a.m. the following day it is open. Any books received from 11.31 a.m. will be deemed to be submitted without an Intention to submit.

Please bring a sealable A4 envelope with you, addressed to STREET HUNT

Competition Submission, Colchester Arts Centre. Please mark the envelope Urgent & Confidential.

When you are at Colchester Arts Centre box office, the person on duty will date stamp and sign the receipt slips at the back of the book and make a note of the time. One of the slips should be snipped off and given back to you. Please keep it safely.

Now put your book into the A4 envelope that you have brought, secure it, and sign over the seal. Hand it over.

When you get home, please email info@streethunt.co.uk to notify us that you have made your submission.

We will contact you within one week (at the latest) to inform you if you have won or not.

If you have not won, you will be free to collect your book from Colchester Arts Centre box office to see which answers you got wrong but you will not be able to resubmit that book. Each book may only be submitted once.

If you have won, we will pay you the entire prize fund as published on the website www.streethunt.co.uk. The prize is guaranteed as a minimum of £1,000 and will not exceed £10,000. We will also retain your winning entry.
